

Our Director Mark Irving

All our genealogical research and drafting is supervised by Mark, and will he will carry out most of the research personally for you.

Mark has a wealth of experience in the field of beneficiary tracing (sometimes called probate genealogy) and is experienced in dealing with most issues that will arise in endeavouring to locate missing beneficiaries.

Mark started in 1984 with the tracing of missing beneficiaries and legatees for a variety of legal issues from reversionary trusts, intestacies, family and Will trusts and missing family members.

In dealing with Legal Professionals throughout those years Mark has many tales to tell of probate problems faced by local lawyers.

Grange Genealogy has been set up to provide a personal service to legal professionals and the beneficiaries traced, one of prompt attention to any tracing queries and research questions based on Mark's years of experience in tracing and managing searches for beneficiaries.

We do this without fuss and as quickly as possible for you, leaving you and the Administrators to concentrate on financially winding up the trust or estate.

If you are in need of assistance over the heirs to an estate or need anyone traced, then give Mark a call, or email him.

I provide a friendly approachable genealogical service for locating beneficiaries and others who need contacting. If you wish to talk through with me how I can help out, give me a call.
